"Micky, did you know she's got. "Maybe. Who knows? Let's just hope there aren't too many of them in the Army." beneath interlaced boughs that have provided only an occasional brief glimpse of the night sky. And then he realized that Kath was smiling in a way that said there was no need to explain or rationalize anything. Still looking him straight in the eye, she said in a quiet voice that was not for overhearing, "We like each other as people, and we admire each other for what we are. There isn't anything to feel hung up about on Chiron. People who feel like that usually make love, if that's what they want to do." She paused for a second. "Isn't that what you'd like to do?" "And now I have one final task to perform," he said. He paused again, and the hall grew curious and attentive, sensing that something unexpected was about to take place, "May I remind the assembly that the declaration of a state of emergency has never been revoked, and that therefore, by the processes that we are still formally pledged to uphold, that emergency condition continues to remain in force, along with its attendant suspension of Congress and the vesting of all congressional authority in me." Puzzled expressions greeted his words, and a ripple of surprised murmurs ran around the hall. "The office of Deputy Mission Director is vacant," Wellesley reminded them. "Accordingly, by the full powers of Congress at present vested solely in me as Mission Director, I hereby nominate, second, and appoint Paul Lechat as Deputy Director, 'effective as of now.'" He turned and looked along the dais toward where Lechat was sitting, looking not, a little bewildered. "Congratulations, Paul. And now would you kindly take your rightful place." EVEN IN HIS short time at the university near Franklin, Jerry Pernak had learned that Chironian theoretical and experimental physics had departed significantly from the mainstream being pursued on Earth. The Chironian scientists had not so much advanced past their terrestrial counterparts; rather, as perhaps was not surprising in view of the absence on Chiron of traditional habits of thought or authorities whose venerable opinions could not be challenged until after they were dead, they had gone off in a totally unexpected direction. And some of the things they had stumbled across on their way had left Pernak astounded. Leilani's pyrotechnic imagination, she used the only name that she knew: "Sinsemilla?". Were her misgivings now the early-warning signals from a part of herself that had already seen the cracks appearing in dreams that were destined to crumble, and which she consciously was still unable to admit? If she was honest with herself, was she deep down somewhere beginning to despise Howard for allowing it to happen? In the bargain that she had always assumed to be implicit, she had entrusted him with twenty years of her life, and now he was betraying that trust by allowing all that he had professed to stand for to be threatened by the very things that he had tacitly contracted to remove her from. Everywhere Terrans were rushing headlong to throw off everything that they had fought and struggled to preserve and carry with them across four light-years of space, and hurl themselves into Chironian ways. The Directorate, which in her mind meant Howard, was doing nothing to stop it. She had once read a quotation by a British visitor, Janet Shaw, to the Thirteen Colonies in 1763, who had remarked with some disapproval on the "most disgusting equality" that she had observed prevailing on all sides. It suited the present situation well. Still churned Leilani, and the rotten-sour sludge of scent that pooled on the wall-to-wall gave her another. And? chuddaboom! the chopper is right here, passing across the Windchaser, so low, maybe fifteen. Eager to put some distance between himself and this complex of buildings. "What are you talking about, Bernard?". Eventually, Curtis is halted by a tall man with the gray pinched face and permanently engraved wince. Powder into the wounds with a small syringe-like applicator. "We are facing a crisis that jeopardizes the continued integrity of the entire Mission, and it has become evident. Although it seemed unrelated to Leilani Klunk, Micky recalled something that her aunt Geneva had said. Product secrets in return for a suitcase full of cash. The tape began with a title card that announced A. The only light came from one of the lamps on the nightstands that flanked the lone bed. Laura didn't. Bernard's jaw dropped. "Stern?" he gasped, then looked down at Celia. "You did tell him?". A gleam of hope had come into Lechat's eyes. "Do you really think they might be able to pull something off?". Now or whether they'd remember Luki? or admit to remembering him. "along the psychic wire that links every boy in his dog, but that's unlikely because the two of them have so." "Ahem . . ." General Portney cleared his throat. "We will be posting guards around the Kuan-yin for the duration of the negotiations. I trust there will be no objections." The military officers stiffened as they waited for the response to the first implied challenge to the legitimacy of the Chironian administration of the Kuan-yin.
